Making water sports opportunities more available to Canadians of all abilities.

For More Information

To learn more about Water Ski and Wakeboard Canada's (WSWC) activities in the area of adapted water sports, please contact Chris Bourne, Chair of the Adaptive Towed Water Sports Committee with WSWC. Chris can be reached at (613) 692-7756 or chris@ala.ca

Through the committee's efforts, these volunteers are working to provide coaches and instructors with the knowledge they need to feel more comfortable with participants who have different types of disabilities. Basic disability awareness information along with technical pointers have been added to Water Ski and Wakeboard Canada's Level I and II coaching manuals. Please contact our national office for more information.

Water Skiing is for Everyone!

... And Water Ski and Wakeboard Canada wants to help your club make its activities more available to skiers who have different types of mobility limitations.

With the Kan Ski, getting those who may have difficulties using traditional water ski equipment and techniques up on the water suddenly becomes a possibility.

The Shadow Kan Ski is a piece of water sports equipment that has a proven record of success. The model available from Water Ski and Wakeboard Canada is known as the Freedom Ski. This is a beginner ski with adaptations that make it possible for people with a variety of mobility challenges to go for a tow.

- ? Extra wide to provide added stability for new skiers.
- ? Starting block allowing individuals with limited dexterity to get up without holding the handle.
- ? Knotted rope handle for use with starting block.
- ? Two interchangeable seating frames to fit those with different hip widths. The 9 inch frame is suitable for smaller skiers while the 12 inch frame will accommodate medium sized adults.
- ? Heavy duty case for shipping purposes.

What More Do We Need to Know?

We have prepared a tip sheet with some basic technical information that will get you started. This will be supplied with the ski.

Information about the level of ability of your skier is also required. This is easily obtainable by speaking with the individual.

With these basics, you and your participants can work together to adapt the activity as necessary.

Rental Rates

The Kan Ski is available for only $10.00 a day plus shipping charges. Costs for shipping will vary depending on your location. Water Ski and Wakeboard Canada will be happy to provide you with specific rates. Failure to return equipment will result in a $500 penalty fee. A $25 per day late fee will also be charged if equipment is not returned by agreed upon date.
